

A VISION FOR GAZA

Now, as the peace deal seems to have been achieved between the State of Israel and Hamas, it offers an opportunity to initiate development plan for ruined Gaza modelled after most advanced progressive Arab-world cities like Doha or Dubai, turning it into the hub of prosperity and splendor on Mediterranean shore for Palestinian Arabs. This process can probably be administered by Hamas itself under proper leadership (as exemplified by the management of Chechnya conflict by Putin's government in Russia – see the images below).

Images of Chechnya's capital Grozny at war and now from Wikipedia. The transition has been overseen by Russia-allied Chechen leader Ramzan Kadyrov (not shown)

This is what both Palestinian Jews represented by the State of Israel and Palestinian Arabs refusing to be integrated in the State of Israel will certainly benefit from striving towards – the best imaginable fruit what is claimed to be Hamas victory could possibly bear. Continued “resistance” will only beget more destruction, suffering, and needless loss of life. What is the point in resisting prosperity, after all?

“Committing to a tangible strategy, even if imperfect, and working with others to implement it, is how we build power for these movements. It requires compromise and can be humbling. Yet it might also allow us to not only say we are on the right side of history, but to collectively shape our future.”

– Ita Segev on Atmos

*Skyline of Downtown Dubai with Burj Khalifa.
Tim Reckmann from Hamm, Deutschland*